

HUMANISING WORK – A PIPEDREAM?

How do we work together to find new ways of living and working?

Tuesday 28th
April, 2015

Venue: St James' URC,
Northumberland Road,
Newcastle upon Tyne
NE1 8JF

What can a faith perspective contribute to the search for an 'economy as if people and the planet mattered'?

Breakfast Seminar: 8.30am – 9.30am: Rev Chris Beales will introduce and launch his recently published book 'HUMANISING WORK'

Conversation style workshop: 10.00am -12.00Noon
with key people in NE Economic Development actions :

Chaired by Canon Bob Langley

Come and join us, a week before the next General Election, to hear from Rev Chris Beales and invited contributors from the social and economic development field as we explore what faith in a sustainable economy might look like!

There will be a short service and reflection for Workers' Memorial Day at 12.15pm and people of all faiths are welcome to attend.

Northumbrian Industrial Mission (who are jointly sponsoring this event) will hold its Annual General Meeting at 1pm (again all are welcome to attend).

For organisational and catering purposes it would be helpful to know if you plan to attend. There are no fees but a contribution of £5.00 is requested for those who wish a buffet style breakfast [from 8.00am] and to cover cost of refreshments during the morning.

Please reply to confirm your attendance: fiona-nim@btconnect.com by April 18th.
